Dear Dr. Lederberg,

On a recent visit to Stanford Medical Center, I learned that you were to come East to your present position at Rockefeller University. My associates and I have been engaged in doing medical computing, mostly, in our case, image processing.

We were wondering how you might feel about the medical computing people in the NYC metropolitan area organizing (at least informally) to share unique facilities, for conversion from one media to others of software and to assist each other with common problems. For example, we have already engaged the interest and help of the American Association of Physics in Medicine in encouraging manufactures to standardize the output of CT images on mag tape so that cases of interest can be more widely viewed etc.

You have my gratitude for your attention to this matter. May we also extend to you our warm good wishes and welcome to New York City.

Sincerely,

Marilyn E. Noz
